STOCKS.

Never before has there been so good an opportunity for profitable purchase of the Cripple Creek stocks each day with an advance in the price of one or more of the leading stocks and it is unusual for one to do this materially. There is no boom to the market, but prices are based only upon the value of the mine.

If you have money which you can safely use for the purpose of useful purchase of mining stocks will probably net you a good profit.

PRESENT STATUS OF COLORADO FORESTAL RESERVES

Under the act of March 3, 1891, the Presidents established the White River, Battlement, South Platte, Douglas and Pikes Peak forest reserves, and have under consideration the proposed Wet Mountain and North Park reserves. The proposed Clear Creek reserve is under investigation by a government agent, and striking timber for several others has been suspended. These reserves, national and public, are situated in the mountains or high, wooded lands, and contain the source of important streams. It is highly important that effective administration be established over them; not only for forest protection, but that due provision may be made for location of mineral claims, removal of timber, etc., within the reserves upon application. This requires congressional action. Bills or resolutions for this purpose are now pending in congress. The policy of using the military force in aid of the civil authorities in this behalf, has been strongly urged, for economical and other reasons.

THE POPE'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Sunday was celebrated throughout Christendom as the "jubilee" of Pope Leo XIII. This supreme pontiff, now at the advanced age of 83, was appointed archbishop of Damiata in 1843, and it is this occurrence which forms the basis for the present anniversary. He was made a cardinal in 1853 and was elected pope in 1878.

The jubilation was made the occasion for very general enthusiasm on the part of the Catholics, services being held in principal cities in many countries, and the world was not without interest to Protestants as well. The words of Cardinal Gibbons are especially noteworthy.

"Let us pray for the illustrious pontiff who is to-day celebrating the golden jubilee of his episcopate. A pontiff who has left the impress of his character upon almost every nation of the civilized world, who has his finger upon the pulse of the people and has sympathy with their legitimate aspirations, above all a pontiff who loves America and cherishes her civil and political institutions."

Pope Leo has been the most liberal and progressive of the popes. In his position he has been able to do the world a service which no one else could have done, a service which is neither small nor temporary. The influence of Leo XIII has infused something of the spirit of freedom and progress into the most conservative of human institutions. And for this service the whole world may join in the congratulations and good wishes of this occasion.

TWO CANALS.

The commerce of the Eastern Hemisphere has been revolutionized by the construction of the Suez canal. Its completion brought England 3,000 miles nearer to China, and 4,000 miles nearer to Bombay. The exports of British goods have increased more than threefold since the canal was opened. Through the canal there passed in the five years named below the following amounts of tonnage:

	British tons	Foreign tons	Percentage of British
1880	2,085,234	1,016,[illegible]	[illegible]
1885	1,884,[illegible]	1,151,421	[illegible]
1890	2,197,[illegible]	1,624,[illegible]	[illegible]
1895	4,861,049	1,471,[illegible]	[illegible]
1896	5,232,[illegible]	1,420,941	[illegible]

These figures enable us to understand better why it is that even the pacific administration of Mr. Gladstone keeps a firm hold on Egypt and is ready to prevent by force if necessary any interference with her control of the canal.

The Nicaragua canal will bring San Francisco 10,000 miles nearer New York by sea and Canton 8000 miles nearer. It will bring the western ports of South America as close to New York as the eastern ports are now. It will open to us the trade of the Orient as it has never been opened before. It will make the Pacific and the Atlantic almost one ocean so far as the means of transit are concerned. It will encourage American shipbuilding for commercial purposes and American manufacturing for the trade that will be obtainable.

The canal has all been surveyed and [illegible] of all the Investing Power — Invest at U.S. Gov't Report

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Mr. Richard le Gallienne in his new little book of verse takes a grieved and discouraged view of the poetic trade. "What shall I sing, he asks, when all is sung?"

> What shall I sing when all is sung
> In every tune by lips of old
> And in the world's heart-strings hung
> The wars of time and love and gold?
>
> When shall I find ears unwilling
> With all the ages at my back
> While voices from the dim hills fling
> Still the song of Pan?
> A fool am I, singing of this and that,
> Makes all my rhymes to vex
> Yet this poor lips are fain of a fool
> As dumb shall kiss again.
> Why shall I strive to be that wise
> To make my music true?
> Only the lovers know the times
> The lips will dance at.

If Richard does not know what he shall sing the rest of us do not feel called upon to supply him with subjects. It seems a pity that he and a great many other modern verse makers never thought of solving the problem by not singing at all.

In another column to-day we make room for a communication from Mrs. E. B. Gittings, Secretary of the Colorado W. C. T. U., concerning the attitude of the organization which she represents toward the so-called Keeley cure. We trust that the legislature may not afford material for such a cartoon as she suggests.

President Harrison has signed the new Quarantine bill, so that it is now a law. While not entirely satisfactory it is a great improvement on the old law or want of law and under its provisions the administration will have discretionary power to prevent the landing of persons or goods.

Governor Lewelling claims credit for magnanimity in not precipitating civil strife in Kansas. He ordered the militia to make war upon the legal house, and they refused to obey. For his services in preventing bloodshed Governor Lewelling will receive as much credit as he deserves.

The Rocky Mountain News says that "Governor Lewelling should insist on being governor or step down and out." The trouble with Lewelling has been that he wanted to be not only Governor, but legislature and Supreme Court also.

The newspapers of the country are finding out rapidly who Hoke Smith is, and are beginning to realize that his personality will add strength to the cabinet.

What the New York Sun says of Cleveland's cabinet is very interesting but if one could know what Dana thinks—

That Junket.

Next Thursday the Colorado legislature starts on its junketing tour to New Mexico. It is to be hoped that the rest from arduous labors may fit them with a desire on their return to do some work for their constituents.—Fort Morgan Times.

Next Thursday the 23d is the day fixed for another junketing trip by our independent legislators down into New Mexico. Between pleasure trips abroad and political monkey work at home very little beneficial legislation may be anticipated at this session.—[Kit Carson Banner.

It seems to one this distance from the state capital that if there was more work accomplished and less junketing it would be better for the people. Where would we be if all the legislatures of the neighboring states and territories should decide to visit our Solons? There would be, say a week, spent in visiting each legislature and then three days in showing each delegation around the city of Denver when they returned the visits. This time added to the time spent in visiting points of interest in the state and the adjournments on Fridays to the following Mondays and other adjournments out of respect to some dead or dying public man takes half of the time of the legislature saying nothing of the time wasted in short sessions, commencing at 10 or 11 o'clock and adjourning at 12 o'clock in the morning and two and three hours sessions in the afternoons. The legislature sets a bad example to all other paid servants of the public in doing as little as possible for the pay received.—People's Herald, Glenwood Springs.

Kind Words for Colorado College.

Colorado College is certainly entitled to congratulations on having won for the second time the first place in the state oratorical contest, with the honor of representing Colorado at the coming interstate contest. The fact is suggestive of the high standard of scholarship and culture maintained at that institution, and the thorough training which the students receive at the hands of President Slocum and his faculty.—Rocky Mountain News.

Lynched in Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Feb. 14.—This city is in tense excitement to-night over an assault committed here this morning upon Mrs. M. A. Moore, a highly respected widow, by a negro who found her alone in the house.

His victim is 55 years old and the mother of seven grown children. A negro named Andy Blount was arrested on suspicion but Mrs. Moore is in doubt whether he is the man. Neighbors, however, believe him guilty.

The negro protests his innocence and an investigation by a number of leading citizens indicates that he speaks the truth. At 8 o'clock tonight the jail was surrounded by a hundred armed citizens determined to lynch Blount. Blocks away they were joined by their purpose despite the protests of the authorities.

At 10 o'clock the door had been broken down, the prisoner taken out and led off in the direction of the place where Blount was confined.

Despite the protests of the jailer, a number of men climbed up to the cell, which is reached only through a trap door in the roof.

STATE NEWS

The Stockmens National Bank of Durango has [illegible] capital stock.

Mr. H. B. Hagaman, of the Craig Telegraph, was married last week to Miss Grace Maccubbin, of Vermont.

The Denver Times of the 7th inst. published a map of the Leadville district, showing the principal mines and railroads.

The Leadville Land and Improvement company has been incorporated to develop the Chemical Hot Springs property.

Trinidad will have a candidate at the World's Fair that will be worth thousands of dollars in gate receipts. The Chronicle-News says that the Grand Junction Star shows a decided improvement under the new management. Messrs. Clarke, Lee and Hurley deserve much credit and the people of the county in the west are to be congratulated.

The next meeting of the Western Colorado Congress will be at Montrose. Preparations are already in progress to make it a success.

Game warden Calvin came in from Denver Thursday morning on his way to Aspen. He will not enter upon the duties of his office until the first day of April. It is thought by those who know the new warden that a better man could not have been selected for the position. With a good law at his back and a liberal appropriation the complaint of the indiscriminate killing of game in the state will cease.—Glenwood Herald.

Mosquito gulch may now be considered as a safe camp to mine in as the output of gold will equal that of silver. South Mosquito is as yet almost unexplored and probably contains more rich gold veins than any other section. This has been proven and yet it is undeveloped. Here is a grand chance for capital to unveil hidden riches.—Park County Bulletin.

The electric road which is to be built next spring and the plans of which can be seen at the office of Charley Munn, is one of the most skillful pieces of engineering in the state. It swings over the Uncompahgre canon twice, ties itself into a bow knot up near powder house flat and once again near the Beaumont sampler. The right of way through Ouray has been secured down Third street to Seventh avenue from thence to the depot, along First street to Fifth avenue and back over same track. The run between Ironton and Ouray will be made every hour and the ore from Red Mountain and Ironton nearly all brought this way. The plans alone of this wonderful road cost $6,000 and are models. The road will be worked by the trolley system the power being located up the canon, not far from the Silver Link bridge at the foot of Poughkeepsie gulch. The grade only touches the wagon road in two or three places and without a change of plans or cost of construction could be made entirely clear of the road. The work will be begun early in the spring and the entire road will be finished by late summer. It will give Ouray the most wonderful power road in the United States.—[Ouray Silverite.

Gave Him Away.

After preaching on the occasion of the reopening of a church the bishop thanked the church warden and farmer for his share in the good work. "And I must thank your lordship for your sermon," was the reply, "but I could not help thinking as you talked about sin that your lordship must have been a little wildish yourself when you were a young man."—Exchange.

There is no reason why the rate of increase will not be as great as for the past seven years. It ought to be greater. The city will then cover three times the territory it does at present.

One great attraction to a tourist [illegible] really fine music which can be heard in the parks of every large city [illegible] every day, as rendered by the military bands. Just as I write a band of sixty [illegible] two pieces from the Industrial School in their neat uniform is serenading the manufacturers' party in the great court of the Iturbide hotel. Who that has promenaded the Alameda at noonday of a Sunday will ever forget the delicate strains of the musicians, and the great people of well and even elegantly dressed people thronging its walks. My heart has been touched in listening to the songs of the humble people in the many churches, as in liquid Spanish translated Gospel hymns were sung to our familiar Gospel tunes. The Mexicans are a music loving people. A gentleman was telling me of a journey he made over a dangerous trail one hundred and seventy miles into the mountains to a small town, and even there he found a dozen pianos.

It has been a pleasure to meet old former Colorado Springs residents, Professor Kerr and Dr Garnett. The latter is having notable success in treating alcoholism, within strict professional lines, but with medicines which only strengthen my confidence that there is far more worth in the Keeley treatment than medical men as a rule are willing to admit. Life of James G. Blaine.

The melancholy death of Mr Blaine has caused a shock to every citizen of this great republic, regardless of political allegiance, and every intelligent man, woman and child will be eager to know the secrets of the success of this truly great man. They will also be eager to know how it has been possible for a man of such humble origin and pretensions as the dry and statesman to rise to the point of playing so important a part in wielding the destiny of his country as he has done. As is always the case when a great man dies, the market will be flooded with what will be called his "biography." Many of these will be, as they usually are in such cases, very little more than a collection of clippings from old newspapers. "Biographies" of this description are comparatively uninstructive and generally unreliable if not misleading. Whenever there are several books written on the same subject and particularly when that subject is the life of some noted public man there is always one of such books that at once stands out head and shoulders above all the others and that is superior to them in every way. This particular book comes the "standard work" upon the subject treated of. "The Life and Work of James G. Blaine," published on the Pacific coast by the Dominion Publishing company of Seattle, Wash., will probably for some time to come be the standard work on the subject which it treats. The book itself is written by Prof. John Clark Ridpath, LL.D., author of America's best living histories and who has been engaged on the work for over a year. In his great and labor work Prof. Ridpath has been assisted by General Selden [illegible] governor of Maine, who has been a long personal friend of Mr. Blaine and is the one man through whose instrumentality Mr. Blaine was first in the United States senate [illegible] a newly less distinguished than the illustrious statesman himself. Those engaged on the work by arrangement are the book is replete with illustrations and material that could not [illegible] have possibly been secured. The illustrations are beautiful and constitute themselves a national portrait gallery of the leading men of our time. The book is altogether magnificently gotten up and both in literary and artistic merit and in mechanical skill it has done ample justice to that truly great American, James G. Blaine. The task is sold only by subscription, and the publishers advertisement will be found in another column.

To Recover $15,000

Mr William H Evans of this city has brought suit in the Arapahoe county courts to recover $15,000 from Wm F Reed and Daniel B. Ellis, Reed's assignee. The following statement of the case is from the Denver Republican of Sunday last

William H Evans has brought suit against William F Reed and Daniel B. Ellis, assignee of W F Reed for $15,000, on a note made by A L. Roeder to plaintiff but converted by said Reed to his own use, and assigned to Ellis. The plaintiff claims that the money which belonged to him was loaned to Roeder the note signed by him and endorsed in blank and was assigned by 10,000 shares of the Rico-Aspen consolidated stock, which was to be sold at $3 50 per share. If sold all the stock was to be divided between Reed and Evans

It is alleged that Reed was employed to negotiate the sale but that he borrowed $15,000 on it from W H Bancroft, converted it to his own use made an assignment to Ellis in order to defraud the plaintiff and the court is asked to undo the proceedings and make Ellis disgorge the $15,000

We have labored for this, and spared no expense, so now we reap the reward in orders from our patrons We have many exclusive styles in picture moldings, have facilities for making special frames to the style of furnishing and decoration of rooms The head of our Art Department has had years of experience, both in Europe and America and we feel fully competent to serve you satisfactorily
